TWO KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AIRPLANE

DECAPITATED AT WRIGHT FIELD

Swaaping Plane Hits Men Driving Along Field Road

Field Offiial Is One of Victims-Probe Will Be Launched

Leon Harness, 32, Osborn, assistant inspection chief of Wilbur Wright Field, and Paul Long, Fairfield were instantly killed when struck by an airplane, piloted by Lieutenant Barksdale, of McCook Field, Dayton, while riding along a government road on the flying field, Wednesday morning about 9:30 oclock. The men were in a field truck which Long was driving.

Barksdale and a civilian were flying over the speed course of the field at a terrific rate of speed. The plane was being flown lower than usual in speed tests, and it is thought the pilot did not see the truck in which Harness and Long were riding. A government investigation will be lounched to determine the details of the accident, which is customary with accidents at the field.

Long and Harness were driving along the road which crosses the speed course, when the plane, piloted by Barksdale and being driven low over the field, swooped down, striking them. Both men were decapitated and them. Both men were decapitated and their bodies mutilated.

The airplane was completely wrecked after hitting the truck, the landing gear, including the wheels and lower Findings Exceeding $25,000 Brought Against Lucas apparatus being knocked off, and the plane plunged to the ground. Harness had been employed at the field since March 31, 1919 and as assistant chief inspector, was one of the most valuable men on the field. Long was married and has two children. He made his home with his parents in Fairfield. He was employed in the quartermaster department and Harness in the air service.

Both were civilians. The accident happened on the site of the grandstands during the International Air Races last fall.

Barksdale and his companion re tained their seats in the plane after striking the truck and avoided injury when the plane grounded. The plane was completely "washed out."

The truck occupied by Harness and Long was knocked off the road and completely wrecked. Barksdale figured in a narrow escape from death several months ago when a plane in which he and a companion, a civilian, were riding broke in two over McCook Field. Barksdale saved his life by jumping from the plane in a parachute but his companion's parachute failed to open and his body fell near Osborn. The man was instantly killed.

DENY KELLOGG RECALLED FOR CABINET POST

English Papers Say Beck Will Succeed Ambassador

London, Jan. 7-Although United States Ambassador Kellogg was in Paris today, Counsellor Sterling of the United States embassy issued a statement today denying that Kellogs was recalled and appointed United States attorney general.

For some unexplained reason the re ports of Kellogg's recall caused considerable disturbance at the American embassy. For three months the embassy has been issuing denials that Kellogg would leave London. It was pointed out today that Kellogg has no intention of returning home or he would not have gone to Paris, where he is attending the allied financial conference today.

English newspapers are printing Washington dispatches that James M. Beck, former solicitor general, will succeed Kellogg. The press comments favorably on Beck. He is well known here and always has been an exponent of the "hands across the sea" movement, and is looked upon as have ing a high regard for the English.

Washington, Jan. 7-The American embassy's denial did not completely set at rest today reports that Ambas sador Frank B. Kellogg will return to the United States shortly and become attorney general in the Cool idge cabinet. Reports have persisted here for me weeks that Kellogg will shortly relinquish his London post, although they have always met with denial.

Wellogg is known to be desirous of the attorney generalship. He was prominent in the Roosevelt adminis tration as a "trust buster" although in later years activities took on a more conservative hue than the name implies.

Is Age Matter of Conditions, Not Years? How CocoCod Gives Added Zest to

The most amazing discovery in years was that which recently revealed 40% of our school children as lacking in vital energy. Malnutrition and vitamnie deficiency -the doctors call it, which means starvation of the blood and nerves that regulate life.

Scientists contend that this explains much of the ill health among men and women of today, for (they argue) how can they resist disease who have been literally starved since childhood?

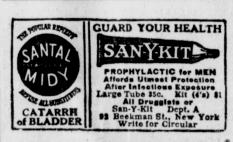

who have been literally starved since childhood?

Is age really a matter of conditions, not years? Physicians and others are inclined to think so. Otherwise, why is one man or woman young at 50—another old at 30? Why are some alive in every fiber, enjoying all good things to the full, while others, little more than half their years, are weak, anaemic, nervous and moody?

Cod liver oil has long enjoyed the confidence of medical men, but never, so much as today when—in a new combination called CocoCod it may be had in easy-to-take form. CocoCod contains the blood-building, nervestrengthening elements which modern food and cookery deny us, combined with pur enorwegian cod liver oil and rich cocoa that makes it wonderfully palatable.

Anxious mothers and fathers who bless it for the roses that bloom in their childrens cheeks are growing younger in body and mind through its use. Is a new era of finer, more vigorous manhood and womanhood to follow this discovery? Is this new food and builder, created to aid childhood, opening the way to a stronger race of virile men and lovely women? At any rate, physicians, teachers and others who are informed are recommending CocoCod, and local druggists have arranged to distribute it and explain its use.

Children who protest against ordinary cod liver oil, readily take it in this new form. So be sure you're getting the genuine CocoCod which has the taste of rich cocoa and the strength-building elements that make rich, red blood, clear eyes and calm nerves.—Adv.

MR. SHAW SHOULD READ THE CONSTITUTION

Suggesting the renomination of President Coolidge four years hence, Mr. Leslie M. Shaw, a former secretary of the treasury, insists that a vice-president taking over the office of President is not President, but merely acting President. The constitutional qualifications for a President, he says, that he be born in the United States and be at least 35 years old, do not apply to the vice president, so a vice-president succeeding to the presidency might have been born an alien.

On both points Mr. Shaw is wrong. The Constitution provides that the duties of the presidency shall devolve on the vice-president in the event of the President's death. The reference to an officer who shall "act as President" in such an event is to other successors determined by congress. Also the Constitution provides specifically for the same qualifications for vice-president that it provides for President.

A former cabinet member who undertakes to discuss the Constitution in a speech should read it first.

AUTO PAWNBROKER

Paris will try the experiment of a "Ma Tante" for automobiles -in other words, an "Uncle" who will take in the flivver and limousine and everything in between, allow to the owner a temporary accommodation at the usual rates plus garage charges and hold until redeemed or sold to pay the costs. The automobile pawnshop has not appeared on this side of the water, but the Paris experiment will be watched closely; for if overcoats, furs, umbrellas and jewelry have laid the foundation of a vast system of avuncular finance, it cannot be doubted that a property so common as the automobile will in time work out some similar system. We may expect, therefore, sooner or later to see the three golden bails appear above the doors of garages.—Phladelphia Public Ledger.

THE PROBLEM OF ATHLETICS

According to Dean Hawkes, of Columbia College, modern education is confronted by a singular problem. And the problem is not single but at least double and possibly many-pronged. To begin with, the college does not know exactly what to do about athletics, in spite of the fact that athletic sports bulk so large in all college life. Nevertheless, the college has never yet found the way. to fit the physical and the intellectual man together into a satisfactory cultural curriculum. But stranger still the college does not know exactly what to do about religion. Dean Hawkes says it is not lack of desire but just the difficulty of doing anything that will meet at once the intellectual, racial and sectarian situation. Some how both athletics and religion are being "fitted in," but largely outside of faculty direction—and this reaching in from the outside by two such powerful interests as religion and sports, of course makes still another batch of problems for school and college.-Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Today's Talks

Nestling in the swaddling clothes of Time's own is the newly born, fresh, colorful, lusty form of the New Year. It's first cry is one for life rich and abundant. The first word that the Japanese babies say, I am told, is the word "Aba" which means "Goodbye." This, in accordance with the Buddhist philosophy, is a saying of farewell to the previous life.

It seems a beautiful way of starting a New Year-saying "Goodbye" to the years and years that have gone. Goodbye Old Year-Happy New Yea:!

And I would that it might be a Goodbye to the mistakes, blunders, hatreds, disappointments, failures, and unhappy moments that have so sported the smooth old road that we had just a year ago to start off with. How bumpy it got before we reached our journey's end!
But now "Aba"—Goodbye.

The days of the New Year are here. They are clean, white new days. They are like the first flowers of springtime after a rain with the gold of the sun upon them.

Into the yard of these days must we crowd all that we are and have-all that we hope to be during the year. There is really no room in the enclosure of these days for anything but work, love,, and happy uesire. It's a beautiful world anyway, strange, full of mystic lights, grey and black with its contributing shadows, but withal a place in which to strive to the utmost, and in which to be brave.

AIR EMPLOYES DECAPITATED AT WRIGHT FIELD

Swaaping Plane Hits Men Driving Along Field Road

Field Offiial Is One of Victims-Probe Will Be Launched

Leon Harness, 32, Osborn, assistant inspection chief of Wilbur Wright Field, and Paul Long, Fairfield were instantly killed when struck by an airplane, piloted by Lieutenant Barksdale, of McCook Field, Dayton, while riding along a government road on the flying field, Wednesday morning about 9:30 oclock. The men were in a field truck which Long was driving.

Barksdale and a civilian were flying over the speed course of the field at a terrific rate of speed. The plane was being flown lower than usual in speed tests, and it is thought the pilot did not see the truck in which Harness and Long were riding. A government investigation will be lounched to determine the details of the accident, which is customary with accidents at the field.

Long and Harness were driving along the road which crosses the speed course, when the plane, piloted by Barksdale and being driven low over the field, swooped down, striking them. Both men were decapitated and their bodies mutilated.

The airplane was completely wreck ed after hitting the truck, the landing gear, including the wheels and lower apparatus being knocked off, and the plane plunged to the ground. Neither Barksdale or his companion, both from McCook Field, were injured. bodies were removed to the

could not hear the oncoming plane. Harness had been employed at the field since March 31, 1919 and as assistant chief inspector, was one of the most valuable men on the field. Long was married and has two children. He made his home with his parents in Fairfield. He was emplayed in the quartermaster department and Harness in the air service.

Both were civilians. The accident happened on the site of the grandstands during the International Air Races last fall.

Barksdale and his companion re ained their seats in the plane after striking the truck and avoided injury when the plane grounded. The plane was completely "washed out." The truck occupied by Harness and Long was knocked off the road and completely wrecked.

Barksdale figured in a narrow escape from death several months ago when a plane in which he and a companion, a civilian, were riding broke in two over McCook Field. Barksdale saved his life by jumping from the plane in a parachute but his companion's parachute failed to open and his body fell near Osborn. The man was instantly killed.

English Papers Say Beck Will Succeed Ambassador

London, Jan. 7-Although United States Ambassador Kellogg was in Paris today, Counsellor Sterling of the United States embassy issued a statement today denying that Kelloga was recalled and appointed United States attorney general.

For some unexplained reason the reports of Kellogg's recall caused considerable disturbance at the American embassy. For three months the embassy has been issuing denials that Kellogg would leave London. It was pointed out today that Kellogg has no intention of returning home or he would not have gone to Paris, where he is attending the allied financial conference today.

English newspapers are printing Washington dispatches that James M. Beck, former solicitor general, will succeed Kellogg. The press comments favorably on Beck. Is Age Matter of Conditions, Not Years? How CocoCod Gives Added Zest to Life

The most amazing discovery in years was that which recently revealed 40% of our school children as lacking in vital energy. Malnutrition and vitamnie deficiency -the doctors call it, which means starvation of the blood and nerves that regulate life.

Scientists contend that this explains much of the ill health among men and women of today, for (they argue) how can they resist disease who have been literally starved since childhood?

since childhood?

Is age really a matter of conditions, not years? Physicians and others are inclined to think so. Otherwise, why is one man or woman young at 50—another old at 30? Why are some alive in every fiber, enjoying all good things to the full, while others, little more than half their years, are weak, anaemic, nervous and moody?

Cod liver oil has long enjoyed the confidence of medical men, but never so much as today when—in a new combination called CocoCod it may be had in easy-to-take form. CocoCod contains the blood-building, nervestrengthening elements which modern food and cookery deny us, combined with pur eNorwegian cod liver oil and rich cocoa that makes it wonderfully palatable.

Anxious mothers and fathers who rich cocoa that makes it wonderfully palatable.

Anxious mothers and fathers who bless it for the roses that bloom in their childrens cheeks are growing younger in body and mind through its use. Is a new era of finer, more vigorous manhood and womanhood to follow this discovery? Is this new food and builder, created to ald childhood, opening the way to a stronger race of virile men and lovely women? At any rate, physicians, teachers and others who are informed are recommending Cococod, and local druggists have arranged to distribute it and explain its use.

Children who protest against ordinary cod liver oil, readily take it in this new form. So be sure you're getting the genuine Cococod which has the taste of rich cocoa and the strength-building elements that make rich, red blood, clear eyes and calm nerves.—Adv.

MR. SHAW SHOULD READ THE CONSTITUTION

Suggesting the renomination of President Coolidge four years hence, Mr. Leslie M. Shaw, a former secretary of the treasury, insists that a vice-president taking over the office of President is not President, but merely acting President. The constitutional qualifications for a President, he says that he be born in the United States and be at least 35 years old, do not apply to the vice president, so a vice-president succeeding to the presidency might have been born an alien.

On both points Mr. Shaw is wrong. The Constitution provides that the duties of the presidency shall devolve on the vice-president in the event of the President's death. The reference to an officer who shall "act as President" in such an event is to other successors determined by congress. Also the Constitution provides specifically for the same qualifications for vice-president that it provides for President.

A former cabinet member who undertakes to discuss the Constitution in a speech should read it first.

AUTO PAWNBROKER

Paris will try the experiment of a "Ma Tante" for automobiles -in other words, an "Uncle" who will take in the flivver and limousine and everything in between, allow to the owner a temporary accommodation at the usual rates plus garage charges and hold until redeemed or sold to pay the costs. The automobile pawnshop has not appeared on this side of the water, but the Paris experiment will be watched closely; for if overcoats, furs, umbrellas and jewelry have laid the foundation of a vast system of avuncular finance, it cannot be doubted that a property so common as the automobile will in time work out some similar system. We may expect, therefore, sooner or later to see the three golden bails appear above the doors of garages.—Phladelphia Public Ledger.

THE PROBLEM OF ATHLETICS

According to Dean Hawkes, of Columbia College, modern education is confronted by a singular problem. And the problem is not single but at least double and possibly many-pronged. To begin with, the college does not know exactly what to do about athletics, in spite of the fact that athletic sports bulk so large in all college life. Nevertheless, the college has never yet found the way. to fit the physical and the intellectual man together into a satisfactory cultural curriculum. But stranger still the college does not know exactly what to do about religion. Dean Hawkes says it is not lack of desire but just the difficulty of doing anything that will meet at once the intellectual, racial and sectarian situation. Some how both athletics and religion are being "fitted in," but largely outside of faculty direction—and this reaching in from the outside by two such powerful interests as religion and sports, of coursemakes still another batch of problems for school and college.-Philadelphia Fublic Ledger.

Today's Talks

Time's own is the newly born, fresh, colorful, lusty form of the New Year. It's first cry is one for life rich and abundant. The first word that the Japanese babies say, I am told, is the word "Aba" which means "Goodbye." This, in accordance with the Buddhist philosophy, is a saying of farewell to the previous life.

It seems a beautiful way of starting a New Year-saying "Goodbye" to the years and years that have gone. Goodbye Old Year-Happy New

And I would that it might be a Goodbye to the mistakes, blunders, hatreds, disappointments, failures, and unhappy moments that have so spored the smooth old road that we had just a year ago to start off with. How bumpy it got before we reached our journey's end! But now "Aba"-Goodbye.

The days of the New Year are here. They are clean, white new days. They are like the first flowers of springtime after a rain with the gold of the sun upon them,

Into the yard of these days must we grown all that we are and have-all that we hope to be during the year. There is really no room in the enclosure of these days for anything but work, love,, and happy uesire. It's a beautiful world anyway, strange, full of mystic lights, grey and black with its contributing shadows, but withal a place in which Nestling in the swaddling clothes of to strive to the utmost, and in which to be brave.
